Lawiston, Me., Sept. 3 -A Republi can victory on September 11 in order to tory the party leaders in Maine must dude the election of a solid Congress felegation from the State. This means that the Second Congress district now each other

The only debatable point, therefore, the Second Congress district. The nocrats rely on Lewiston to furnish a plurality for McGillicuddy. There are x counties in the district, but the bulk the vote is here in Androscoggin mty. Oxford is a Republican county, are Franklin and Sagadahoc, though a less degree, Knox and Lincoln counties are pretty evenly balanced inder normal conditions between the two parties.

McGillicuddy as a stateman.

One of McGillicuddy's mainstays in the last election was the French vote.

A large part of the population of Lewiston consists of persons of French descent.

But these voters of French descent supported White as a candidate for Mayor last spring, and they now are organized in the Civic Alliance working hard to elect him to Congress. The indications are that White will have the support of the former Progressives in the district with hardly a break in their lines. Among the Progressives in the district who are pushing White's candidate a more than the organization intends to knife the nang White's candidacy among their friends are some of the best known Progressives in the State.

Thomas F. Conway Wants to Argue Senatorial Qualifications on Platform.

The old fashioned joint debate in poli-tics has gone out of style, some poli-ticians say, along with torchlight pro-cessions and other boom-ta-ra-ra stunts in campaigning, but Thomas F. Conway, who is exceedingly minded to be the Democratic candidate for United States Senator, whatever the Hon, William F.
